

EUROPEAN POWERS WARN CARRANZA TO AVERT WAR

ROGERS HAS TRAIN READY FOR REFUGEES

AMERICANS IN MEXICO CITY WILL LEAVE TONIGHT FOR VERA CRUZ, STATE DEPARTMENT LEARNS.

MEXICANS QUIT BORDER

Civil Population of Mexican Border Towns Start South With Bundles of Food and Clothing.

Washington, June 21.—An overnight dispatch from Special Agent Rogers was received at the state department that arrangements had been made for the special train to carry out of Mexico the Americans and foreigners to Vera Cruz.

He hoped that he would be able to start today taking many of the six hundred people.

Dispatches from consuls throughout Mexico agreed that the tension on the Mexican side was at high pitch, but that no disturbances to Americans had begun.

Silliman Arrives at Border.

Eagle Pass, Texas, June 21.—Consul Silliman arrived here last night coming by the way of Monclova owing to the situation of the railroads near Monterrey and Laredo. He said he expected to remain there several days. Mr. Silliman was the American consul at Mexico City.

Vaqui Indians Join Forces.

General Ahumada, Carranza commander, arrived at Piedras Negras, the Mexican town opposite here, today, with 2,000 Vaqui Indians, reinforcing the garrison there. A large party of the population of Negras has already moved south.

Mexicans Leave Agua Prieta.

Douglas, Ariz., June 21.—Agua Prieta, Mexico, south of Douglas, Ariz., was practically deserted today. The population, while a handful of soldiers, the staff and general of the militia in Sonora, remained.

Refugees, mostly women and children, departed for the south, taking with them a crowd of dogs and several parrots. The only belongings the families carried were blankets and food carried in bundles.

ALL IN READINESS TO RECEIVE TROOPS

Adjutant General Holway Leaves for Camp Douglas Tonight to Take Charge of Wisconsin Guardsmen.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Wis., June 21.—Adjutant General Holway will leave for Camp Douglas tonight to take active charge of the Wisconsin National guard as it arrives Thursday.

Moreover, the adjutant general is in an understanding with the saloonkeepers of the city, who have been in the past, regarding the sale of liquor to the members of the guard. Commenting today he said the camp for thirty days before they are sent to the front.

Judged from the solid enlistments reported from all sections of the state the organizations will have an average membership of one hundred which will soon be augmented to one hundred and fifty war strength. The regular members of the guards already have their uniforms, and the additional members who have just enlisted will be furnished with uniforms as soon as they arrive at Camp Douglas. These have already been ordered from the United States supply stores at St. Louis and Rock Island. General Holway is hourly expecting word from Colonel McCarthy at Chicago advising him that the horses and mules have been purchased and sent to Camp Douglas.

It now appears probable that no brigadier general will be appointed by Governor Philip until the troops have been mustered into the federal service for the name to go to the front. So far the name to go to the front. So far the name to go to the front. So far the name to go to the front.

They were repulsed back by the artillery fire from the French.

Yves du territory no fighting between the nations was reported but a bombardment took place.

Russ Forces Driven Back.

Paris, June 21.—Russian forces were fighting on the west side of the river Styx were driven back by counterattacks, was the announcement from the war office today.

North of Lusk the Russians still resist the German advance.

Jerlin, Mo., June 21.—Four men were drowned and damage to the extent of $50,000 was done here by floods early today following a rainfall of 4.5 inches. At one time the water was five feet deep in Main street and over doors and basements of most of the town.

GUARDS UNPREPARED FOR SUDDEN CALL; SHORT ON MATERIAL

Aside From Lacking 151,000 Men for Peace Strength, Machine Guns, Wagons and Tents Are Needed.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Washington, June 21.—When Secretary of War Baker ordered the mobilization of the national guard in every state he took a long step toward settling the dispute as to the efficiency of the organized militia.

No one knows better than the division of militia affairs of the war department, whose chief is Brigadier General A. L. Miles, the ailments of the guard. There are severe shortages of men and material alike.

Some time will be necessary to recruit the 23,000 men the national guard lacks to make up even its peace strength of 151,000. It is short by 186,000 men of its full war strength of 315,000.

Of the twelve divisions, existing on paper, only two, the Sixth New York and the Seventh Pennsylvania, have a divisional headquarters organized.

Headquarters Unorganized.

Of the thirty-six brigades, on paper, making these divisions, only twenty-eight have their headquarters organized. Due to the troops of many of the brigades and most of the divisions being from different states, and the war department having no regular officers to spare, there is no one available for these staffs.

For the 127 regiments of infantry and cavalry there should be 635 machine guns. At last reports a few weeks ago there were but 12 in the possession of the various regiments. The ordinance department had only 77 available. There were 67 others in the various coast defenses, but they were needed there.

Transportation is of the utmost importance in any field operation and this will be particularly true in Mexico. Yet the Sixth New York division is the only one with complete regimental and divisional wagon trains.

The Seventh Pennsylvania has complete regimental trains but no wagons at all for the trains of the other ten divisions.

Short of Wagons.

The regiments of these divisions need 625 wagons to complete their regular trains. There are enough wagons for its regiments. As a number of the states have not sufficient storage space, the government has stored at Jeffersonville, Ind., 279 wagons with the necessary harness issued to these states. In other words, when they need these wagons and harness, they will have to wait until they can be shipped from Jeffersonville.

The national guard troops are supplied with enough equipment for their peace strength, but, like the regulars, would need additional arms, clothing and equipment for the men enlisted to ring them in the strength. The same holds true with regard to their tentage.

LA CROSSE GUARDS TO LEAVE THURSDAY

Will Depart at 7:30 A. M. for Camp Douglas—Whole City to Turn Out for a Demonstration.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

La Crosse, Wis., June 21.—La Crosse, one of the four mobilizing points of the Wisconsin national guard, was awake early today with the news of the departure of the third regiment and the departure of the first regiment and the departure of the first regiment.

By proclamation of Mayor Bentley of La Crosse a great demonstration in which the entire city will take part will be held at 6 a. m.

A Red Cross society was organized last night for the service of the third regiment and employees of the city agreed to hold all places open for their men while away doing service for the nation. Steps were also taken to help and make comfortable the families of men going to service who were in need.

The city of Tomah, where one of the third regiment companies is located, has volunteered five hundred dollars for the families of soldiers needing money.

At Sparta, the home of another company of the third regiment, a large amount of money for the men preparing to go to the front, and five men from one household, four sons and one nephew of General McCoy, formerly of the Wisconsin National Guard, will go to the front.

Many well-to-do young men are leaving positions paying $150 to $200 a month to go into service for the nation at $15 a month.

How U. S. And Carranza Forces Face Each Other Along the Border

Position of U. S. Troops

General Pershing's troops are strung out along a three hundred mile line of communication running south from Columbus, N. M., the border base of the expedition. Bodies of American troops hold Bogavante, Colonia Diaz, Ascension, Corralitos, Colonia Dublan, Galeana, El Valle, Las Cruces and Namiquipa. Colonia Dublan is the main expedition base and Namiquipa the advance base and headquarters of General Pershing.

much work on the roads, grades, bridges, etc.

The road is reported in excellent condition. They have established stations all along the route from Columbus to Namiquipa. Near each station is a cleared space for aeroplane landings.

At every American border town and along the line of communication, the same condition exists southeast from El Paso along the Southern Pacific.

There being American troops, regulars and federalized Texas national guardsmen posted at nearly every station along the line of communication.

Specific information as to the disposition of Trevino's forces is difficult to obtain, but generally the troops have been reported as follows: Starting at Juarez, follow south the line of the Mexican National railroad as far as Chihuahua.

City, which is the main Mexican base for the operations around General Pershing's column, and that place is also the headquarters of the Mexican troops. This is the headquarters of the de facto government's troops in the north.

Directly east of El Valle, on the Mexican Central railroad at Villa Ahumada, is a heavy concentration of Mexican troops. This is the center of the de facto government's troops in the north.

Also from Juarez to the south-west along the line of the Northwestern railroad, at every station there are small garrisons of Carranzistas, and at Casas Grandes and Nueva Casas Grandes, where the railroad crosses the American line of operations. There is a Carranza garrison at Peason, and several detachments of unknown strength sectioned along the southern part of this line as far south as Madera.

There are Mexican troops at Agua Prieta, Sonora, which is opposite Douglas, Ariz., and the railroad to the south to Nacozari. Carranza is reported to have between eight and ten thousand troops stationed along the line which is approximately on the boundary line between the Mexican states of Chihuahua and Sonora. These are under the command of Gen. Elias Pitarque Calles.

At Juarez there is a Carranza garrison of 4,000 troops under command of Gen. Francisco Gonzales. Recruiting and fortifying are going on in Juarez.

50,000 MEN TO MOVE ON CAPITAL

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, D. C., June 21.—Strong pressure is being brought to bear upon General Carranza by representatives of European powers to prevent him from breaking into hostilities with the United States. Indirect reports reaching the state department told of these efforts and said there was a possible chance they would be successful.

Allies Work for Peace.

Agencies of the allies are understood to be active for peace, and particularly they believe the Germans' influence is to inflame the Mexican government against the United States with a view of preventing this country from controlling trade in Mexico and South America, which the Germans would otherwise have.

It is pointed out that Carranza might avoid war by calling an international commission to settle the border situation as provided for in the treaty of 1848. He is said to have given Special Agent Rogers in Mexico City all the aid in his power to arrange for special trains to carry American citizens from the interior to Vera Cruz.

From Carranza and his authorities comes the promise that protection from bandit attacks will be given to Rogers and Americans.

Wait Carranza's Attitude.

The United States anxiously awaits word from the Mexican government regarding General Carranza's attitude toward the note sent yesterday.

The official statement here admitted that they looked for a statement at any time which might be a forerunner of a declaration of war.

Military authorities for the De facto government have an attitude which threatens the troop movements near the border, and the war department today was getting ready to meet the military authorities for the De facto government.

A special train carrying many Americans and foreigners, was to leave Mexico City today for Vera Cruz, according to Special Agent Rogers at the Mexican capital.

POWER OF WANT-ADS
AGAIN DEMONSTRATED

Pen Knife Lost in Cemetery is Sent From Lincoln, Ill., in Response to Gazette Advertisement.

Mayor James A. Fathers had nothing but praise for the Gazette want ad after an experience recently, when an expenditure of twenty-eight cents for an ad resulted in Mr. and Mrs. Fathers and family were at the cemetery Decoration day and while laying flowers on graves in the family lot a small pen knife that was owned by Miss Elsie Fathers, became lost somewhere in the cemetery.
When the loss was discovered later, Mrs. Fathers requested that an ad be inserted. Several were skeptical that a small pen knife lost in a big cemetery would ever be found. The Mayor finally advertised and within ten days was much pleased to have the knife sent to him from Lincoln, Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Fromang with Mrs. Kuehne and others were at the cemetery Decoration day and Mr. Fromang happened to pick up the knife. He with his wife left a day later for Lincoln. Mrs. Kuehne read the want ad and remembering that such a knife was found, notified the Gazette office. A communication to Mr. Fromang resulted in the knife being sent to Mayor Fathers this week.

BEST SENIOR PARTY
HELD IN MANY YEARS

One Hundred and Fifty Couples in Attendance at Event Last Evening at Assembly Hall.

The most successful dancing party given by the graduating class of the high school in a score of years, was held at Assembly hall last evening, in every detail, attendance, program, music and arrangements it was easily the peer of parties of former years. Close to one hundred and fifty couples were in attendance. Many from out of town were here, and a congenial and informal atmosphere prevailing made these visitors give voice of a delightful evening and highly favorable comment regarding the affair. More Janesville people than usual were present and they were delighted in every way with the party. Thompson's five-piece orchestra of Madison furnished the music. As a whole their program and renditions took well. Their music was snappy and full of swing, just the type that delights the younger dancers. Perhaps trifle slower time to those pieces written for fast dancing, or even better, an elimination of the extremely fast numbers, would have been appropriate, due to the crowded condition of the dancing floor. The drawbacks seemed to overlook the drawbacks to fast time with so many dancers on the floor and as a result came in for a little criticism. However, everybody was having an excellent evening and the few instances of this kind were passed with little comment.

Stanley Ryan, George Spohn and Maurine Verick were in charge of arrangements and to their executive ability must go the honors for the success of the party.

The chapters were Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Ward Peterson and Mr. and Mrs. William Hemming.

PREPARING RESOLUTION FOR PAVING CONTRACT

This morning the members of the Board of Public Works prepared a resolution for the paving contract to be let for Oaklawn avenue and Forest Park boulevard. It is understood that the resolution specified Bermuda asphalt. The officials will consider the contract within a few days time.

PLAN TO ENTERTAIN
TENEMENT CHILDREN

Philanthropic Department of Summer Club Makes Arrangements for Annual Visit of Chicago Youngster.

Mrs. George H. Rummell and Miss Edna King, in charge of the philanthropic department of the Summer Club of Household Economics, have been working for some time on arrangements for the annual visit to Janesville of a delegation of children from the tenement districts. Last year there were thirty-three youngsters who were entertained on a two weeks' outing. This year it is hoped that an even larger number may be provided for.

The summer club expects to raise a substantial fund among its own members to provide vacations for the children and a number of the women who reside in the country will offer their homes for the two weeks, some donating board and room, and others making a nominal charge which must meet from the philanthropic department's treasury.

It will also be necessary to find homes where the children may be entertained. Anyone, whether resident of the city or the country, who would be pleased to have one or two or more children for a two week period or making a small charge for the same, is requested to notify Mrs. Rummell or Miss King. Those who have entertained the youngsters in previous years know how appreciative they are of everything that is done for them and childish letters received from the little visitors of previous years testify to the fact that their friends have not forgotten their Janesville.

The exact date for the bringing of the delegation to this city will be discussed at the meeting of the Summer club on June 29 at Emerald Grove.

COURT WILL DECIDE
GOULD FIRM'S CLAIM

Suit of Bridge Construction Company Against City to Be Tried by Judge Grimm on Monday.

Before Judge George Grimm, in the circuit court of Rock county, Monday the suit brought by the Gould Construction company against the City of Janesville over judgment alleged due in the construction of the Milwaukee street bridge, will be tried. The trial will be before the city attorney being called in, as the contesting attorneys agreed to have the action a court case.

The Gould company in their complaint demand the sum of $38,810, alleged extra expense incurred in the building of the bridge, that was not claimed in the contract. It is claimed by the contractor that there were elevations in the streams and an old stone pier that was not recorded in the plans submitted, which caused unexpected expense to the construction. It is held that the plans and specifications submitted were misleading, not accurate and that the contract price, $35,600 did not cover the expense of the bridge construction.

In the answer, filed by W. H. Dougherty, city attorney, the city denies the allegations that all proposals were not correct in detail. It is held by the city that the contract signed was for the full completed bridge, and was specified to include all the work, material and equipment necessary. It is further noted by the city attorney that the Board of Public Works never authorized the extra expense or was any claim filed until after the bridge was completed. It was expressly stated in the contract that all claims would have to be submitted during the period of construction, before the board of public works. Payments were made on the bridge in accordance with the contract, the officials say, and all expressed a confidence that the court will uphold the municipality in the action.

Thomas S. Nolan will appear for the Gould company. The greater part of the testimony will be of a technical nature, dealing with the charts and records of the bridge construction.

FESTIVAL IS GIVEN TO MINE LABORERS

Michigan Copper Company To Suspend Operations for Two Days to Give Workmen Holiday Good Time.

(Associated Press.)
Calumet, Michigan, June 21.—At a sacrifice of production, on which thirty-cent copper places a premium, the Calumet & Hecla Mining Co. will suspend operations completely for twenty-four hours July 15 to entertain its employees and their families, numbering 20,000, at holiday festival commemorating the seventieth anniversary of the discovery of the famous "conglomerate" lode of copper bearing rock. The men will be paid their usual wages.

The striking feature of the program will be the presentation by President R. L. Agassiz of 1,366 gold, silver and bronze medals to veteran employees, 103 of whom have worked continuously for this company more than twenty years. One man, Timothy O'Shea, worked in the first test pit sunk fifty years and six months ago and is still unwilling to retire on the veteran's pension allowance of the company. Another, Henry Fisher, started work in the company's crushing plant at Lake Linden 48 years ago and was only two "heads" in the mill and is now superintendent of an establishment containing 28 "heads" and more than a hundred reginding mills and leaching tanks of silver types.

In addition to the 5,600 employees who will receive invitations to participate in the festivities and bring their families, the widow and every member of the family of each man who died in the service of the company will be invited to attend. The celebration will take place one week before the third anniversary of the big copper strike, in which the Calumet & Hecla company fared prominently.

All of the officers and employees from the lowest to the highest will fraternize and include among them will be all the directors and officials from the eastern offices of the company at Boston. So that the women and children will not be compelled to go home at the noon hour arrangements are being made to provide free picnic lunches, put up in sanitary cartons, for every employee and member of his family present.

The morning program calls for a parade in which every employee is asked to march, followed by a review and the presentation of medals. Six bands will provide the music for the parade and concert music throughout the day and evening.

The 103 men who have worked for the company more than forty years will receive gold medals; those who have been employed from thirty to forty years will be presented with silver medals and bronze medals will be awarded men who have been on the company's rolls for more than twenty years. All of the medals will be of the same size, two inches and a half in diameter, the gold medals containing six and one-half ounces of gold. They were designed by V. D. Brunner, who designed the Lincoln coins.

The medals contain on one side embossed portraits of the late Quincy A. Shaw and the late Alexander Agassiz, the two men who are considered responsible above all others for the success of the Calumet & Hecla. On the same side will be the dates "1866-1916" and on the other side the name of the employee and length of service. The afternoon will be devoted to sports for men, women and children, band concerts and a general "get together" picnic. In the evening there will be dancing. Large merry-go-rounds and other amusement devices will be set up for the children.

BAGGAGE SMASHERS MEET IN ANNUAL CONFERENCE

(Special to The Gazette.)
Boston, Mass., June 21.—America's expert baggage smashers convened here today to talk about their trunk. First glance at the gathering proved that the baggage smasher at home is not the baggage smasher on holiday.

The baggage smasher at home is very tough. In his native environment, trundling a hand trunk through canyons of brass bound luggage, he affects a uniform cap over one ear and a pencil over the other. He carries one shoulder high and talks in a rough voice out of one corner of his mouth.

At home, in short, the baggage smasher is a man all twisted up; but here, today, he is slick and spick; and just looking at him you wouldn't suspect that he would smash the dickens out of anything from a hand satchel to an armored battleship, if it came in as luggage.

No smasher could be found who would explain how it is that baggage-men can find an individual trunk so quickly in the stacks and stacks of them that daily roll in and out of the great railroad stations of the country.

But they do it; and they must have credit for that.

AGRICULTURAL and GARDEN DEPT

ALLEN B. WEST, Director

GARDEN AND AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

Question: Enclosed you will find a grass head. Please tell me if it is quack grass or not.

Answer: The enclosed grass head is not that of quack grass but that of orchard grass, which is a valuable forage plant. The head of quack grass is somewhat a head of rye. It is more readily identified by stems with many sprouts.

It is these underground stems that make the trouble. The joints in these stems are closer together than in other grass, usually not more than an inch to an inch and a half apart, and sometimes much less than that. At each joint new roots are thrown out and at many of these new stems start.

If the stem underground stems start, one of these joints is cut a new plant will be formed. The Agricultural Experiment station at the University of Wisconsin has an excellent bulletin, Circular No. 4, on "How to Rid our Farms of Quack Grass." It also has a No. 19 on "The Control of Quack Grass and Canada Thistles." The Agricultural Experiment station at Brookings, South Dakota, has an excellent bulletin on Weeds, No. 150, which has good cuts illustrating quack and other grasses as well as other weeds. It may be had on application.

Question: On one of my young elm trees there is a row of round holes completely encircling the trunk. What made them and will they damage the tree?

Answer: These holes are probably made by a wood pecker in his search for insects.

Trees are frequently found with many such rows of holes. They are in no way injurious to the trees and need cause no uneasiness.

Question: What can I do for the striped bugs upon my cucumber and melon vines?

Answer: The easiest way to prevent damage from these insects in a small garden is to provide many wooden frames as there are hills to be covered. These frames should be about 12 in. square and 4 to 6 inches high and covered with mosquito netting or similar material. Placed over the hills they prevent the bugs from reaching the plant. By the time the plant is too large for the frame it is out of danger from the bugs, which will not injure it then. The bugs may be stored and used several successive seasons.

Or one may make tents for the plants by using a frame work of barrel hoops and covering it with cheese cloth. The frames will be found however the vines, stems and leaves when they are moist with air slaked containing a little or similar material other poison is quite a protection but must be persistently followed up after every rain. Paris green and water may be applied in the same way for potato beetles. Tobacco dust may also be used.

NOT ENOUGH BEER FOR GERMANS SO THEY DRINK THE SOFT BEVERAGES

(Associated Press.)
Berlin, June 21.—What, which has worked so many changes in the daily habits of the Germans, has now conspired with war weather to induce the Germans to drink "soft drinks." Bottles of lemon sour, ginger ale, cream soda and other beverages included under the generic name of "pop" in the United States are beginning to make their appearance on shelves and bars formerly devoted to beer, and the thirsty people are drinking them, not from choice, but because they have to.

It is no longer possible to make enough beer to meet even fairly moderate demands of the reduced home population. The majority of the larger beer gardens will not be opened at all this summer and for some weeks it has been no unusual thing to find some of Berlin's biggest restaurants and beer halls without a drop of beer early in the evening of warm days. The sale of beer to households in containers charged with carbonic acid gas has been discontinued, and only favored old customers can still get bottled beer.

Bavaria, the greatest beer-drinking country of the world, where many a solid citizen drinks one to two gallons daily, and where the great beer halls are filled at almost all the hours of the day, is in a still worse plight. The time in which beer may be sold has been shortened, and now there has come, shortened, permitting saloons, beer halls, etc., to sell beer only from 10 to 12, 2 to 4, and after five o'clock at night. Exceptions are made in the case of beer dispensed in factories to their workers, and by farmers to their help. No beer whatever may be sold locally until after the war of the Bavarian soldiers have been supplied.

The scarcity is, of course, due to the fact that the empire has had to limit strictly the amount of barley which has been fixed at 50 per cent of the normal amount, but brewers interviewed by The Associated Press, correspondents said they were not able to obtain even this amount of barley. The situation has further made into the available amount of barley by the fact that the shortage of coffee has required the roasting of great quantities of barley as a substitute.

The government has granted the brewers permission to malt in the second (current) quarter of the year the third quarter. This will rob the summer days of some of their terror, but even at best, the supply will be utterly inadequate.

Beer Great Toner For Athletes

READ what C. T. Flanagan, Famous Athlete and Founder of the Irish-Canadian Club, says: "Beer is the best upbuilder and sustainer next to beef steak and is essentially an athletic food. Nearly all trainers of note prescribe beer, in fact every American athletic record is held by men who follow this principle."

Another celebrated United States Athlete, Abel R. Kiviat, says: "I have used beer moderately for the past four years during my career as a runner. I have found it to be of great value as an aid to digestion and honestly believe that it is beneficial and without question, a body builder. I drink beer moderately while in training, especially with my principal meal of the day."

A BIT OF HISTORY.

In a recent issue of the Christian Science Monitor a brief resume of the various policies of the democratic party from 1828 to 1860 is given in such a shape that just at this time it is worth reading and pondering on. It is a page from the political history of this nation and during the present presidential campaign will prove most valuable to understand the various discussions that arise from time to time.

The democratic party, as it now exists, made its first appearance in 1828, under the leadership of General Andrew Jackson. Its beginning, therefore, antedates that of the republican party, which made its first bow in 1856, under the leadership of General John C. Fremont. The student of political history in the United States is likely to be confused unless he is careful in dealing with the partisan struggles of the half century of the republic. There was, for example, an early republican and an early democratic party. The first republican party followed the decadence of the federalist party, and under the leadership of Thomas Jefferson it became a democratic party.

An interesting illustration of the peculiar conditions wrought by changing partisan nomenclature in those days is presented in the names of two St. Louis newspapers. The city in which the democratic national convention of 1860 was to assemble tomorrow was divided sharply on the issues that separated the two principal parties in the first quarter of the nineteenth century. The republicans were the followers of Jefferson's doctrine, as laid down in his inaugural address, a doctrine that in later years was espoused by Jackson and his successors. The path of it was, "Free commerce with all nations, political connection with none, and little or no diplomatic establishment." The democrats were the opponents of such restricted views. Thus in St. Louis, in 1860, was established the Missouri Republican, which later became one of the most pronounced democratic newspapers in the southwest, and following its establishment was founded the Missouri Democrat, which for many years has voiced republican, sometimes radical republican, opinion in that section. Of late years these names have been somewhat modified, one being changed to the St. Louis Republic, the other through consolidation to the St. Louis Globe Democrat. Neither newspaper is a turncoat in politics, but the meaning of partisan names has changed.

Among democrats of these times, Jefferson and Jackson share equally in the glory attaching to the foundation of the party. From the latter's failure to obtain the presidential chair in 1824, the election being contested and John Quincy Adams receiving the largest number of votes in the house of representatives, there has been no question as to the political ground it has occupied. There have been internal disagreements as to certain policies, as, for instance, on the slavery question, on secession, on the acceptance of liberal republicanism and Horace Greeley, and on the Bryan free silver issue, but generally speaking, the party has held to the lines followed by the Jefferson republicans and the Jackson democrats.

The question of protection and protective tariffs was not a political issue until after the war of 1812. The right of government to lay taxes on imports had been universally asserted and established. It did not come to be questioned seriously until the democratic party was organized under Jackson. However, under his two administrations, the need of set platforms was not felt. From 1828 to 1840 the democratic party formulated no creed. In their various public assemblies democrats passed resolutions and certain lines of democratic policy were set down in state papers and in the speeches of responsible representatives or leaders, but not until May 6 of the year last named, in Baltimore, did the democratic party, in national convention assembled, frame its political beliefs in a manner approaching the platform method of today. Then the planks were present, resolutions, for instance, that which touched most closely upon cardinal points in democratic doctrine was couched in this fashion:

Resolved—That justice and sound policy forbid the federal government to foster one branch of industry to the detriment of another, or to cherish the interests of one portion to the injury of another portion of our common country; that every citizen and every section of our country has a right to demand and insist upon an equality of rights and privileges, and to complete and ample protection of persons and property from domestic violence or foreign oppression.

Four years ago, in the same city, Baltimore, the democratic national convention, before nominating Woodrow Wilson, adopted a platform containing this plank:

We declare it to be a fundamental principle of the democratic party that the federal government, under the constitution, has no right or power to impose or collect tariff duties except for the purpose of revenue, and we demand that the collection of such taxes shall be limited to the necessities of government, honestly and economically administered.

And this:
The high republican tariff is the principal cause of the unequal distribution of wealth; it is a system of taxation which makes the rich richer and the poor poorer; under its operations the American farmer and laboring man are the chief sufferers; it raises the cost of the necessities of life to them, but does not protect their product or wages.

The clause in the 1840 plank in time ceased to acquire repetition. Occasion for the assertion of the right covered, however, has again arisen, and doubtless one of the strong planks of the St. Louis platform will declare that the "persons and properties" of American citizens must be held inviolable abroad as well as at home. But there may be more realistic conjecture with regard to the attitude the democracy toward the tariff. The republican tariff on sugar, it must not be forgotten, has been retained by the democrats; the latter are even more pronounced than the republicans in voicing the necessity for protection of the kind that would prevent dumping after the war, and they favor a tariff board which will provide a measure of protection. President Wilson, it is understood, is framing the platform. It will be interesting to see how far he has gone, or how far the convention will go toward "taking the wind out of the republican tariff issue."

The period of democratic ascendancy, as later generations have been taught, stretched back from Buchanan to Jackson; it has been able to claim only three of the fifteen terms that began with Lincoln's victory over Douglas. There was hope for a longer tenure when Cleveland was elected, both for the first and for the second time, but this hope was crushed. It has been revived with the administration of Wilson, and its realization will depend largely upon this week's proceedings in St. Louis.

LANSING'S NOTE.

Secretary of State Lansing does not mince matters in his latest note to the "defacto" government of Mexico and he gives Carranza fair warning that the United States will no longer countenance a continuation of the dilatory tactics of the Carranza government. It is an ultimatum without any strings to it and one which if sent two years ago would have prevented the present necessity for calling out volunteers to act as a threat to the Mexicans that they must obey the American flag and its rights. The Milwaukee Sentinel says that Lansing's note accuses Carranza of bad faith, or at least inability to maintain a government competent to protect life and property along the American border.

It declares this country's purpose to keep our forces in Mexico and to keep them busy on the errand that took them there, until our border is made safe against further murderous invasions by gangs of Mexican bandits. It is straight talk, man-fashion, too long delayed, but welcome now, and the American people will back it, down to their boot heels.

Unless Carranza weakens and withdraws or fails to enforce his seven day notice to get out, it means war. If war comes, it will reunite all Mexican factions. It is possible that the old Mexican chieftains believe this is the only way the Mexican factions ever can be reunited; and that it will be better for Mexico to regain national unity in defeat than to go on bleeding to death from internal strife.

If war comes, our soldiers will confront a hostile people of more than 15,000,000 persons, of whom at least 250,000 have had some actual fighting during the past three years. Our men will face a people whose rank and file believe the outrageous robbery and oppression to which they have been subjected during the past four years were the fruits of the corruption of their rulers by American and other foreign exploiters, a people whose deepest dread for generations past has been a possible conquest of their country by the United States.

No man can forecast the results of such a war. The one thing certain is that if it comes, Uncle Sam will need a great many more fighting men than he now has under arms.

VACATION EMPLOYMENT.

The problem of finding useful occupation for children during vacation begins to worry parents as the school year draws to a close. Though the youngsters are supposed to suffer from strain of school life, they often get more tired and nervous during vacation. Some useful occupation for part time serves as a balance wheel to ill-regulated activity.

The United States Bureau of Education recommends that in each school there be one teacher who has practical knowledge about gardening. This teacher should be employed throughout the year. She should help pupils select seed, visit gardens, and assemble children in groups for instruction in this work.

Many lawless ways disappear with regular tasks. Once a boy has seen his fruits and vegetables robbed by some youngster, he gets the owner's point of view. After that, stealing things from a neighbor does not seem funny and glorious.

Having, by the campaign contributions law, compelled candidates to pay in cash instead of by checks that could be traced, city legislators feel that great good has been accomplished.

The Federation of Woman's Clubs has concluded a historic meeting, but no improvement in the quality of bread, pie, or hash has been observed as a result.

After the democratic convention decides the real business of nominating a vice-president, the choice of a presidential candidate will easily be determined by snapping up a cent.

Before exchanging any more of those notes with Germany and England, the government should reflect on the scarcity and high price of note paper.

CLEVELAND ROBINSON.

Word has been received in this city of the passing away of Cleveland Robinson of Binghamton, N. Y., on June 20th. Mr. Robinson was the son of the late General John B. and Mrs. Robinson and was born in Janesville. He leaves a wife and daughter, Mrs. Clinton Collier of Binghamton. Mr. Robinson was a cousin of Miss Sara Richardson, V. P. Richardson and M. P. Richardson of this city and had many old friends in this city who will mourn his loss.

It is solemnly promised that the noble Carranza troops will start out after Villa on June 31.

Formerly the slogan was "Let the people rule." Now it's "Let the people squeal."

On the Spur of the Moment

ROY K. MOULTON

The Cold Gray Dawn.
When you rise from your bed
With a terrible head
And your tongue's like shredded wheat;

When your feeling at first
Is a ferocious thirst
And you have no desire to eat;
When your brain's in a reel
And you're sure that you feel
The floor of your bedroom rock;
When the republicans do sway
In an uncertain way
And you're sure it's an earthquake shock;

When you're cold and then hot,
And you really do not know
Know just where you hid your shoes;
When your hair stands on end
And refuses to bend,
Though plenty of lard you use;
When your fingers are thumbs
And you dome of thought hums
Like a saw in a lumber mill;
When your features all hurt
And you can't find your shirt,
And the furniture won't stand still;

Though you may not confess,
It is easy to guess
And really no sort of chore;
You can surely depend
You were with no sick friend
When you sat up the night before.

Answers to Correspondents.

Bill—You say you want to borrow a clean shirt so that you can take a life insurance examination. You ought to know better than to ask us. We can't stay in bed while you are being examined.

H. G.—The only way that we know of to avoid spending all of your money for coal is to live in a steam-heated flat and spend it all for rent. Myrville—We are not running a matrimonial bureau, but if your intentions are serious, we know of a party who is so homesick that he writes poetry, dedicated to lady trapeze performers.

Indignant—We cannot roast your neighbor for he doubtless takes the paper the same as you do, but if he walks around at night with a wooden leg that squeaks and keeps you awake, the only way you can retaliate is to throw a round and teach him to sit under your neighbor's window every night and howl. This will make it unpleasant for both of you.

The Playmates of Yesterday.

Oh, where are the playmates of yesterday.
The fellows we knew in school?
Oh, what has become of the studious ones,
And where, oh, where is the fool?
Oh, what has become of the orator,
Whose passion was to recite?
And the bashful kid who could speak no piece
Unless he succumbed to fright?
Oh, what has become of the model boy.

Who was always the teacher's pet?
And where, oh, where is the tough young man,
The one we can never forget?

The studious one, so we have been told,
Is driving a hack these days;
While the fool owns stock in a bank or two
And a railroad that always pays;
The orator that we knew so well
Is clerk in a dry goods store;
While the bashful kid we knew has been in congress ten years or more.
The model boy is behind the bars
For stealing a neighbor's cow.
And you ask what of the tough young man?
Oh, he's a preacher now.

Signs of the Times.
All conductors and brakemen on the Erie have been ordered to wear black neckties; but then any necktie is black after one trip on the Erie. Diamond Dick and Nick Carter being dead, it looks as though all the lurid literature will have to be inspired by Detective Burns. Congress is investigating the price of sugar. If it investigates far enough it will find that sugar is high. A New York woman laughed herself to death over a joke. Harry B. Smith or George Hobart ought to find out what that joke was and write a musical comedy about it.

"Yes, professor dear," replied Rollo, as he emptied his pipe and put it in his little jacket pocket.
"Poland," began the professor, "is bounded on the south by the Gogole mountains and the Snity river."

"Uxtry! Uxtry!" called a newsboy just passing the classroom windows. "Germany captures the Gogole mountains!"

"Perhaps I should just say the Snity river," amended the professor. "On the east, by the plains of Snout-gower."

ENLISTMENT OF COMPANY BEGUN TODAY

ADJUTANT GENERAL HOLWAY
AUTHORIZES JANESVILLE TO MAKE APPLICATION FOR INFANTRY COMPANY.

NEED 65 SIGNATURES

All Interested in Organization of Company
Asked to Sign Application
Blanks at City Clerk's Office as Soon as Possible.

Janesville is to make formal application for a company of infantry to become a unit in the Wisconsin National Guard organization, either in the state reserve guard, in case the present state guard, now under orders for mobilization at the Mexican border, is called into service, or in the future infantry regiment to be organized when the War Department designates the exact quota of Wisconsin's contribution under the new army bill in a few days.

Enlistment for the proposed company started this afternoon and as soon as sixty-five signatures are obtained the papers will be forwarded to the adjutant general at Madison as a formal application to the governor that such a company be established in Janesville. The enlistment is under orders of Adjutant General Holway, who instructed David Atwood to have the proper application blanks drawn up and signed and forwarded as soon as possible to the governor.

The enlistment papers can be found at the office of City Clerk Hammarlund. The papers are drawn up according to law read as follows:

APPLICATION FOR THE ORGANIZATION OF A MILITARY COMPANY IN ROCK COUNTY, STATE OF WISCONSIN.—SAID COMPANY TO BECOME A PART OF THE WISCONSIN NATIONAL GUARD.

To the Honorable Emmanuel L. Philipp, Governor of the State of Wisconsin: We, the undersigned,—being all residents of the county of Rock, State of Wisconsin, and being all liable to military duty in said county,—hereby apply to you for the organization of a company of the Wisconsin National Guard, to be known as the Janesville Infantry Company, and we request that you will cause the same to be organized and formed within said county of Rock, and state of Wisconsin, and we hereby make application and request that said governor take such steps as may be necessary for the formation and organization of such a company within said county of Rock, and state of Wisconsin,—all as provided and required by law; and we the undersigned do hereby declare and state that we will equip and enter in said company, if the same be formed, and will, in all respects, comply with all requirements of members of the Wisconsin National Guard; and we hereby request and make application that such a company may be formed within the county of Rock, and state of Wisconsin; to be and before a part of the Wisconsin National Guard.

Witness, our signatures this day and year hereinafter subscribed.

It will be seen this reads, "County of Rock," so that the enlistment is not confined to the city of Janesville alone. If the company that is talked of materializes there will be two infantry companies in Rock county, one at Beloit and one in Janesville. One of the Beloit men, who is a cavalryman, has some talk of organizing a troop of cavalry in Janesville but Adjutant General Holway stated this morning in a telephone conversation that he did not contemplate that any such company would be organized at the present time while he did know that more infantry companies were needed, to either be organized at once, or act as a reserve organization.

He, however, suggested that while the application be made out for infantry, the company would place the request that Janesville have a cavalry company on file for first consideration in case the cavalry were ordered. As soon as the present application is passed upon by the governor and approved the Adjutant General will order a mustering officer to come to Janesville and make a personal investigation of the applicants. If he finds the list satisfactory he will proceed to muster them into the state service.

As soon as fifty or more are mustered in they will meet, in the presence of the mustering officer, and hold an election of the necessary officers. The names of the persons thus chosen are then forwarded to the governor, approved by the governor, committee are issued and the company is then a part of the national guard organization subject to the call of the governor for service either within the state or subject to the call of the president for foreign service.

It is expected that there will be but little delay in securing the signatures for the new Janesville company and the only delay that may occur will be in obtaining the service of the mustering officer. As soon as the signatures are obtained it is expected that drills will commence at once. There are a sufficient number of young men who have had military drill to teach the rudiments of the exercises and it is probable that the Auditorium will be placed at their disposal for drill purposes.

The signers of the present blanks do not bind themselves to any other service than that of becoming members of the company when it is organized. If the company should be called into either state or federal service, they would have the privilege of either refusing to enlist for such service or being excused for good reasons from active service. The age of the persons enlisting are between eighteen and thirty-five for the national guard.

St. Patrick's Court No. 318. W. C. O. F., will not hold any meetings until July 5th.

MARRIED LAST NIGHT AT HOME OF BRIDE

Pretty Wedding Performed Last Evening at Sanford Goverhill Residence.—To Live in Iowa.

Miss Edith Louise Goverhill, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Goverhill of 227 North Washington street, was united in marriage to Earl Sherman Metcalf, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Metcalf of 304 North Washington street at the home of the bride's parents last evening. The Rev. Smith of Broadhead united the couple in the holy bonds of matrimony.

The ceremony was consummated in the bride's room before a large table laden with fruit, flowers, roses and asparagus ferns. To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Miss Della Seart, the officiating clergyman, the bride and her attendant, Winthrop Metcalf, a brother of the groom, entered and awaited the bride. Little Jean Sutherland and the bride's cousin, Stanley Metcalf, a brother of the groom, were the ushers. Miss Goverhill was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Sanford Goverhill. Her bridesmaids were Miss Wilma Soverhill, and Miss Louise Bennett. Miss Laila Soverhill was the maid of honor.

The bride was attired in a satin train and a veil held in place by peach and orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of roses, orchids and lilies of the valley. The ceremony was preceded by her sister, Dorothy Atwood, as flower girl and the latter's brother, Sanford Atwood, as ring bearer. Before the ceremony Arthur Schmitt sang "Somewhere a Voice is Calling."

Over one hundred guests were present at the wedding lunch, served by the girls of the Presbyterian church choir, of which the bride was a member.

Mr. and Mrs. Metcalf left last evening for Delavan Lake where they will spend a few days and later take up their residence at Fairfield, Ia., where Mr. Metcalf has a responsible position with an electric company.

Both young people have always been popular in the home and are well known and popular in the young society set. Both are graduates of the Janesville High School.

EVERYBODY HELPS NONE SUCH BROS. WITH BIG PARADE

The Colonel and His Associates in Business Session Meet With Glad Hand at Every Turn.

With the Fourth of July and Janesville's big celebration only two weeks away, members of the citizens' committee in charge of the big features of the occasion are rapidly rounding their work into form and within a few days matters will be so arranged that only the finishing touches will be necessary during the remaining time. About the city the various subcommittees which have had the work divided among them, report that everything is high and that everybody solicited is ready to lend a helping hand.

Big success is being met with by the committee in charge of the None Such Bros. circus parade, the bareheaded and torch procession which is to be staged after supper. Those in charge held a meeting at the Gazette library last night to go over work for these monstrous attractions. Chairman Edward Amerphol and Joseph M. Connors, who have had experience in years past with the None parade, report that never before have they met with such enthusiasm on the part of owners of teams and wagons and drays, embryo circus performers, business men, clerks and men, women from every part of the city. No time of celebration in the past has the committee had as many horsesFlores and all trucks and drays are also promised in large numbers by the business houses with their clerks as the performers.

Joseph Burns, Jr., who has charge of the New Ireland parade, reported that he will be able to have over a hundred mounted girls and boys and men in his section. Every man is invited to put up, get into the parade and have the time of his life.

Robert S. Dailey has his Boy Scout troop out and is planning to get in touch with scoutmasters this week to ask their co-operation and the use of the youngsters.

Thus far five organizations of the city have replied to the letter of Secretary Peter V. Kuhn asking their assistance and co-operation in the parade parade of the evening. The members of W. H. Sargent Post No. 20, G. A. R., have appointed Louis Tramble, Jr., and George S. Burton to have charge of their division. The parade committee will furnish automobiles for the veteran soldiers. William Hayes, F. Branks, James Sheridan, Frank Gleason and John Heffernan have been appointed to have charge of the float of Isabella and the Rebecca are planning features. The Janesville Lodge No. 90, I. O. O. F., has appointed F. Watson, A. W. Allison and Lynn A. Walters to have charge of their float. Other lodges and social organizations to a large number have given practical assurances that they will be in line. It is necessary that this information be conveyed to either Mr. Amerphol or Mr. Kuhn so that all parade matters will be well in hand when necessary.

Some of the features reported by individuals and to be put on by them in the afternoon are really screams. It would be hard to get too good a thing away from the committee. Suggestions to tell these newer ideas. Suggestions coming to Mr. Amerphol and Mr. Kuhn have been given attention and in many cases it has been found that the ideas can be worked out to advantage without excess cost and labor. The committee again announces that any person having a stunt or suggestion call on either of these men.

The Auditorium on South River street has been leased until after the Fourth and people desiring to deck their floors at that place during the coming days before the celebrations can run their wagons into the building and work on them at their leisure.

ELMER GERLOFF ARRESTED ON WIFE DESERTION CHARGE

Elmer Gerloff was arrested at Kenosha on a warrant charging wife desertion and brought to Janesville Tuesday afternoon. It is expected that the court will settle the case privately today and will hold open or dismiss the complaint.

Amazing but rarely suspected truths about the things you eat.

CHAPTER 74.

"Bleached flour" which most people have never heard of, is, notwithstanding the general ignorance concerning its existence, the largest item in quantities in every city in the United States—Thousands of barrels of low-grade flour, bleached to an ashen color, are milled in the United States every day—Where bolting and sifting fail to make denatured flour as white as it ought to be nitrogen peroxide is called upon to finish the job.

Most of the large cities and nearly all of the small towns of the United States are being deluged with bleached flour. Millers of the middle west are dumping low grade bleached products into bakeries and grocery stores. Scarcely a day passes in which the chief inspector of the New York Produce Exchange is not called upon to examine the flour. Even the housewife can detect this fraud if she so desires.

The baker who uses bleached flour knows what he is buying at a cheap price for the reason that the barrel in which it reaches him is labeled according to its contents, although it is not required by law to label his bread and cake in the same way.

The test for bleached flour is a simple one and a rather pretty experiment. Take a handful of the suspected flour. Put it into the form of a little mound or pyramid, placed on a white cloth or wooden table. With the thumb press the top of the mound, thus forming a cup or well about the size of a thimble. Into this well pour a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts of water and a few drops of potassium permanganate. The mixture will be of a pinkish color. If the flour has not been bleached there will be no discoloration.

Under the existing sanitary codes of most American cities there is a provision which enables the health department of most communities to proceed against the thousands of carloads of bleached flour which the middle western millers are now unloading upon the public.

The government, which has failed to prevent the bleaching of flour for interstate commerce, needs the aid of local health departments to help it in its efforts to swamp out this base and indefensible practice.

Flour is bleached for no other purpose than to conceal inferiority by making it appear of better quality than it is. Most sanitary codes provide against the staining, coloring, or bleaching of any food product for the purpose of concealing inferiority. Under such provisions it becomes an easy matter for the corporation counsel of any American city to bring action against bleached flour which is whitened through the treatment known as the Alston process or by any other artificial process.

The Alston process takes low grade flour and by the action of nitrogen peroxide makes it resemble flour that commands a higher market price. Such whiting contains nitrite reacting material, the detection of which is not difficult.

It is true that the bleaching of flour is but a single step in the downward march of the adulteration of the foodstuffs in the United States. It is constantly descending. Not satisfied with whitening the wheat of its millers have still further debauched their industry by resorting to electrical chemistry in their efforts to fool the people.

That the flour and grain markets of the world are notoriously corrupt is not disputed by those on the inside of this corruption. It is destined to be tolerated depends entirely upon the capacity of the people to understand its vicious nature and apply the remedy in the form of legislation.

I do not insinuate that bleached flour is in itself any more responsible for any of the diseases of malnutrition than any other forms of denatured flour, nor do I intimate that it constitutes more than a symptom of the confusion and chaos in which the United States permits its food standards to become legally entangled.

Bleached flour may have nothing to do with the deaths of 1,500,000 children under ten years of age who have perished in the United States during the last four years. Bleached flour may have nothing to do with the increase in heart disease, cancer, and diabetes which plague the victims of the middle-aged.

Bleached flour may have nothing to do with infant mortality. However, it may have much to do with fraud, fraud, make-believe, and as such it must be treated.

QUESTIONS ABOUT FOOD

Answered by Alfred W. McCann.
Q.—I would greatly appreciate some information as to what foods I should give my child, a boy of nine months. Presently I am giving him baked potatoes, peaches, occasionally, and Wheaton's corn flakes, orange juice in the morning and the Kellogg's Krumbs. My chief trouble lies in not knowing what to give the youngster for a change.

A.—The foods you are giving your baby are excellent. I would not make a change in a diet which has already been found to have been rearing your eighteen-month-old child on a diet almost identical. The trouble does not appear to be in the food itself, but in the way it is given. If every mother in the world could be persuaded to exercise your fine wisdom in the feeding of children the human race would undergo a remarkable transformation.

Forget the necessity of a "change." Breast fed babies are perfectly happy with a single food and they require no other food until they are a year or more old. If you are feeding your child on a diet almost identical with the few, simple, unrefined, and wholly adequate foods which constitute the diet of the primitive little one is now thriving on naturally.

Do not, under any circumstance, of its thirst for variety—a thirst which does not exist and will not exist until the child is afflicted with non-sensical preferences make any effort to add to this diet until the child is two years old. There will soon be published here a full and complete menu for children beyond that age.

YOUNG WOMAN STRICKEN WITH HEART FAILURE WHILE EATING EVENING MEAL

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Edgerton, June 21.—Mrs. Paul Starke was stricken with heart trouble at her home last evening just at supper time. Apparently in good health she prepared the evening meal and together with Mr. Starke sat down to a meal when she was taken with a pain in her heart. Mr. Starke tried to assist her but to no avail as she died almost immediately. Mrs. Paul Starke was formerly Miss Elizabeth Rucks. She was 20 years of age at the time of her death and was united in marriage to Paul Starke four years ago, the ceremony taking place at Janesville. She was a member of the German Lutheran church and was also an active worker in the Ladies Society. Her death is doubly sad as she leaves a four months old baby to be cared for. The immediate relatives to mourn her loss are Mr. Starke, her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Rucks, the father and mother, Ernest and Martin Rucks, brothers, and one sister, Mrs. Wm. Stricker all of this community. Funeral services will be held from the German Lutheran church Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and Rev. Spillman will officiate. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the entire community and Mrs. Starke will be greatly missed by the many friends.

A quiet family wedding took place last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Palmer when their daughter, Zoe, was united in marriage to Mr. H. H. McKibben of Janesville. Rev. Wm. Hooton of the Methodist church officiated. Mr. and Mrs. McKibben will make their future home at Poyntelle where Mr. McKibben has a position with a local elevator company. Their many friends join in wishing them a long and happy married life.

When Mr. and Mrs. Otto Rucks received the news of the death of their daughter last evening, the father and daughter lay in their automobile. When they reached the J. Thronson farm their car started to skid in the muddy road and before the father and daughter had stopped it had skidded into the ditch where it tipped over on its side. Fortunately none of the occupants were injured and were able to proceed to the city. The fight wheel on the machine was bent and the car otherwise was uninjured.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

BY DAISY DEAN

Theda Bara's next appearance in the movies will be in a revival of that famous stage favorite, "East Lynne." The old drama of English country life is enacted by an all-star cast in support of Miss Bara, who is playing Whitney, Stuart Holmes, the charming "movie villain," and other actors and actresses of sound reputations on stage and screen.

In writing the scenario from the novel "East Lynne" and the play "East Lynne," Miss Mary Murillo retains in its picture form all the dramatic and literary force, but increases the scope of the story along lines only possible in moving pictures. Edna Bracken, who directs the pictures, starring Miss Bara, selected scenery true to type in old-fashioned spots in the east, the buildings and garden which appeared quite like those of rural England, and the interior scenes show genuine old English antique furnishings, which lend a color unusually correct.

CRANE WILBUR IN DETECTIVE STORY

"The Haunting Symphony" of the nature of a detective drama, is being filmed by Robert Broadwell from story by Crane Wilbur. Mr. Wilbur appears in the part of a doctor, a guardian of two children who have been left considerable wealth. The guardian hopes to induce the girl to become his wife, but falling in this, comes to murder at a time when a man who has been blinded by a chemical explosion enters the home, thinking it his home. The blind man hears a scream and a shot when near a table. He clutches the photograph of his hand has fallen on and leaves the building. When he recovers his sight he attempts to unravel the mystery shown in the photograph. This he accomplishes by a peculiar strain of a musical number. Besides Mr. Wilbur, the principals of this are May Gostin, John Coker, Jessie Burnett and Lloyd Holton.

A company of players, headed by Harold Lockwood and May Allison, with a "Thousand Islands" making exterior for the next production, "One Cylinder Sam."

Marie Doro is at work on a new picture to be called "The Storm." She was shown last in a most effective Janesville.

AT THE APOLLO.

"Pudd'nhead Wilson" on Friday.

The two pistols used in the duelling scene of the photodramatic version of Mark Twain's famous story "Pudd'nhead Wilson" which will be at the Apollo on Friday, with Theodore Roberts in the title role, are the collection of Mr. Wilfred Buckland, Art Director of the Laasy company.

Mr. Buckland is known as the greatest collector and authority on ancient firearms in the country and his collection is said to be one of the most complete in the world, not barring that of the British Museum.

By careful attention, Mr. Buckland has kept his collection in a wonderful state of preservation and the pistols, when tested, were as accurate and as sharp shooting as when they left French gunsmith. The pistols are kept in a black ebony case and with the necessary powder flasks, ram rods, wadding cases, etc., comprise quite an equipment.

AT THE BEVERLY THEATRE.

"The Law Decides" Tonight.

Harry T. Moore who is featured with Dorothy Kelly in "The Law Decides," a seven-part dramatic subject, at the Beverly tonight, is the highest paid actor in the Blue Ribbon feature. Moore plays the part of a man, who, not satisfied with the fact that the woman he loves has refused him and married a rival, comes to the end of the world through the plotting of the step-mother of the woman's husband, he eventually gets her away and induces her to marry him. The lovers' marriage ends with the tragic death of the persistent one, when we see him jump from the seventh floor of a large building.

AT THE APOLLO.

Mary Pickford Tonight.

Mary Pickford's latest photoplay is "The Eternal Grind" which is being presented at the Apollo today. It is a factory drama in which Miss Pickford plays the sympathetic and touching role of the overworked, hard-driven little slave of the machine, as only the highest paid actress in the world could interpret it. But in the character enacted by the celebrated star as the slave of the machine she is the mistress of it, everything else with which she comes into contact.

It is the story of an amiable little girl who, in a remarkable way, but battling against any odds with which she comes into contact.

AT THE APOLLO.

Kitty Gordon in "Her Maternal Right"

Kitty Gordon, the International star, will next be seen in "Her Maternal Right," which was written expressly for her by Willard Mack, author of "Kick In," and other legitimate successes. The role given her here like a glove, and even better than was anticipated, her performance being a great revelation to critics who were at the first showing of this five part feature when it was given the acid test of criticism in the projection room of the World Theatre. Admirers of Miss Gordon will be pleased to learn that "Her Maternal Right" will be the feature shown at the Apollo theatre on Thursday and arrangements can now

Heart and Home PROBLEMS

By—
MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters may be addressed to
MRS. THOMPSON
in care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I lived with my family for sixteen years and then suddenly took an interest in dramatics, took dramatic course, and became an actress, which was very much against my father's wishes. My mother did not care what became of me.

I fell in love with an actor and we were the hero and heroine in a movie drama. He asked me to marry him and I foolishly accepted, not knowing what kind of a man he was. He drank and gambled and has now left me with a baby boy. I get a large sum of money, but I ought to have a home for my child. My parents would let me stay with them on account of what I have done and I don't know what to do. A theatrical manager has proposed to me, but he is forty and I am only eighteen. Do you think I ought to accept him on account of my child? I am a hopeless wreck and instead of having a mother's care I have to live alone and without comfort. Please advise me what to do.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl aged twenty and I have been going with a boy friend about a year. He has never showed that he cared for me until he saw me at another young man, and that made him very angry. Will you please tell me if you think this young man cares for me? He has always treated me very nicely and always respected me as a girl. I am a great deal for him. When he cannot see me he writes me letters. Do you think he would write if he didn't care for me? He is a nice, quiet boy and makes big money and could be with me often. The other one is angry at me for going to a picnic with this other young man. We are not engaged. Would you give up the first fellow or the second one?

I do not know whether the boy loves you enough to marry you or not. If he does not, he has no right to get angry when you go with another boy. I would not give up either of them if I were you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Some time ago you published the name of a remedy for warts. Will you kindly do so again? I should be applied with a little cotton batting on the end of a toothpick.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Can you

Household Hints

SANDWICHES.

Pimento Dressing.—First part: Grind together through meat chopper one-half pound cream cheese, one small can pimentos, two hard-boiled eggs.

Put second part in one egg, one tablespoon sugar, one teaspoon flour; mix with one-half cup sweet milk.

Put second part in double boiler and let come to boil. Then add one-half cup vinegar and let come to boil.

Now add first part and cook twenty minutes; let cool and it can be kept some time.

Put four or five slices of bread together with this dressing, before cutting, and cut across them for ribbon sandwiches.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

When ironing dust caps that are made with rubber elastic, first sew rubber tight at beginning, then take a little safety pin, run rubber through end, just pin high up to the cold water.

When ironing rubber elastic, when through ironing draw rubber back in place and pin. Cap will look like new.

Now that paint is so high priced, the following may be of benefit. One gallon of soft hot water add four pounds sulphate of zinc (crude). Let it dissolve perfectly and a sediment will settle at the bottom. Turn the solution into another vessel. To one gallon of regular paint (lead and oil) add one gallon of the compound, stir into it the paint slowly for ten or fifteen minutes, and the compound will be perfectly combined. If too thick, thin it with turpentine. This materially reduces the cost of painting.

To Preserve Cut Flowers.—Dip stems of the fresh cut flowers in boiling water for five seconds, then put them in cold water. This congeals the stems, therefore, sealing the water will come. Especially good for peonies and large stemmed flowers.

Squabs on the Table.

One onion, four onions raw lean bacon, bunch of herbs, one table-spoon chopped parsley, one bay leaf, one onion, small piece lemon rind, one salt and pepper. Cut the onion in four pieces. Cut bacon and onion into large dice. Melt butter in casserole.

Put in bacon, onion, parsley and fry five minutes. Add stock and bring to boiling. Add stock and bring to boiling. Add stock and bring to boiling.

Squabs and lemon rind, cover casserole tightly and allow contents to simmer one hour. Remove squabs and strain stock. Thick with one table-spoon flour mixed in a little cold water and pour over squabs replaced in casserole. Season with salt and pepper. Allow gravy to boil five minutes to cook flour. Serve in casserole. Will serve six persons generously.

Combination Salad.—Six beets, one-half head cabbage, one-half bunch celery, two small onions, one bunch fine. Mix with mayonnaise and chill.

Ever-Ready Shortcake.—Make good biscuit dough of one sifter of flour, one teaspoon salt, two teaspoons baking powder, one large egg, one pound lard, enough sweet milk to make stiff dough. Pour into greased dish and steam one and one-half hours. Strawberry sauce. Two cups strawberries, mashed. Cream one table-spoon butter and one cup sugar together, add to berries and pour over shortcake. This cake can be kept for days, and reheated as needed, saving the heat in summer. Use fresh berries each time shortcake is steamed over.

Strawberry Frosting.—Crush one cup strawberries, add one cup confectionary sugar, and white of one egg; beat all together with egg-beater until it is as thick as whipped cream. This will frost a large cake and will not soak into the cake at all. This recipe can be used also with red raspberries.

Crumb Pudding.—One quart sweet milk, one pint bread crumbs, three-fourths cup sugar, yolks of four eggs, butter size of small egg. Flavor with vanilla. Bake in slow oven. Whip whites of eggs stiff, add one cup powdered sugar, flavor with lemon, spread over jelly and brown. Serve warm or cold.

CANNING AND PRESERVING.

To Can Berries Without Cooking.—Use fresh, firm fruit, wash and drain. Fill cans (sterilized) with fruit.

"I never thought she was anything extra," Mrs. Hillhouse said frigidly, "not in education anyway. She never had half as many advantages as a girl that I had. Her pa was just a poor circuit rider, while my father owned the finest river bottom plantation that—"

"Jane's makin' up for lost time, I reckon," Abner seemed unconscious of the fact that he was interrupting her. "Up here in this God forsaken section she had no sort of show for her natural talents, but down there in that swift town she is feelin' her oats. It is a pretty sight to see Jane in a fluffy yellow silk dress, cut low at the neck, an' her arms white an' plump at the head o' that scrumptious table orderin' them nigger gals to tote forward this an' that toothsome dish. Joe's makin' money like a dam broke loose. He's got a big, growin' business, an' he spends freely."

"Yes, he's doing well," Mrs. Hillhouse declared, with animation that crept from her flushed cheeks to her eyes. "He wants a partner too. He has written John to come down an' take an interest. Joe says we needn't have any rent to pay, that there is plenty of room for us all in his big house. Yes, he's crazy to have us come."

"You don't tell me," Abner exclaimed in well assumed astonishment. "An' what a pity, too, for John certainly is tied here hands an' feet. Unlucky! a piece o' property like a newspaper on its last legs ain't no little undertakin' to be state."

"We'd have no trouble at all," Mrs. Hillhouse answered. "In fact, two young men here in Darley are now borrowing the money with the hope that we will decide to sell."

"Oh, them fellows," Abner said, in a tone of sympathetic disparage. "Well, if your sole hope lies in that direction I'm sorry to say you will meet with disappointment. They came to me after John turned down everywhere else. I couldn't lend money to crack brains like them an' told 'em so."

Mrs. Hillhouse's features fell into anxious gravity. It was as if she could think of nothing to say at the moment. "It is that way all through, Sister Hillhouse," Abner said consolingly as he took up his hat and fitted it over his knee. "There is always some wall or other risin' betwixt us an' the plums o' life—that is fer some of us—you an' me an' John, for instance, but Jane an' Joe have drifted at high tide into a patch o' clover—especially Jane. If your husband jest could get in with his brother down that now you'd eclipse Jane mighty soon, fer you know what's what. You are dyin' of the dry rot in this measly old town."

"You say those young men can't get up the money?" the woman faltered.

"No, they can't make the rifle," said Abner colloquially, "but you must pay Jane a visit anyway. She'd be glad to see you, I know, fer she was me, an' I'm nothin' but a scrub. You ort to see her chicken house. It is in a great lot fenced off with wire nettin'. Her fine hens lay eggs that fetch a dollar a dozen for hatchin' purposes. It's a pretty sight. The water is good in Augusta, too—due pure freestone, as soft as wash with as rain water full o' soda."

"What a life you are missin', Sister Hillhouse! You could do like Jane says she is goin' to do—spend the winter there when all the New York millionaires are at the hotels playin' golf an' the warm months here fer a change. It makes me stand to think o' what a little thing is makin' betwixt you an' all them advantages, but it is the little things that camp us an' it is the halter of failure round our necks. I guess John Hillhouse will hang on to that patent inside sheet till the subscribers bury 'im at his expense out o' gratitude fer the many obituaries he has printed about his kin. I don't know, I'm shore."

"I'm going to sell the paper," she said sharply. "John makes a botch of everything he attempts. He tried awhile back to get me to consent to trade the Clarion for a farm miles and miles from civilization. If I had consented we'd be further from Augusta than we are now. Surely there are persons who will pay $1,500 for a paper like that, and I'm going to find them if I have to run an advertisement in outside papers."

"That is one thing that would help you," Abner had the air of a paid legal adviser. "You certainly could give the buyer good reasons for you sellin' out, an' that would be an item. Just explain the offer Joe Hillhouse is makin', an' all doubts would be laid. Yes, I agree with you, Sister Hillhouse, if the paper is sold you'll have to do it. John never could do it in this world or the next, as fer that matter."

"I'm going to sell," the woman said. "I've never failed yet in anything I set out to accomplish. Jane Hillhouse

"I'm going to sell the paper," she said sharply.

may think I'll spend the rest o' my days in this poky town, but she will know differently very soon."

Abner rose to take his departure. As he stepped down to the ground he swung his hat like a shield. "It is funny, but all this talk about sellin' the Clarion makes me think that I had a notion o' ownin' a weekly myself. I think a sight o' Howard Tinsley, an' he's about to go away off some'er to embark in newspaper work. I've got $1,500 lyin' idle too. I'd never have dreamt o' tradin' with your husband. I like many men, he don't seem to know his own mind long at a time. Of course if I was to buy I'd want to deal straight out with you."

The woman was flushed with combined eagerness and anxiety. "I'll let you have it," she said. "John will do exactly what I say. He always does."

Abner turned toward the gate, putting his hat on to shade his face from the sun. "That is a paper that could be bought over in Glimmer country. I ain't been to look it over yet, an'—"

"But that would take you and Howard both away from home," urged the woman shrewdly. "Surely you'd rather have a paper here at Darley."

"Well, that is somethin' in that too," Abner's entire being were the vestments of a man being led unwittingly by a superior influence. "An' it tuck a woman to think o' it too."

"Well, what do you say?" Mrs. Hillhouse followed him to the gate, which he was closing after him. "You will take it, won't you?"

"I'll swear," Abner said sheepishly, "you certainly know how to wheedle a feller. Shorely you kin wait till I take a trip over to Glimmer to look that plant over."

"It is now or never, with me," was the firm answer.

CHAPTER VI. The New Clarion.

IT was after dark when Abner and Mary reached home. Mrs. Trumbley was waiting on the porch, anxious to see the purchases her daughter had made for her. "What under the sun kept you so long?" she asked pettishly. "I've been to the door forty times and looked down the road—done yore work an' mine both. Now I'll have to wait till sun up to see how you matched the cloth."

With much elation, Mary gave an explanation of the important deal Abner had made. "Howard won't go now, mother. Think of that!"

"Howard, Howard, Howard!" Mrs. Trumbley sniffed contemptuously. "To hear you all chatter, a body would conclude that the whole round world was turnin' fer that boy an' nothin' else. I hope you didn't make a fool o' yoreself before Jim Tarp. A man with his solid business head ain't goin' to visit a girl with serious intentions that is daft about a rollin' stone like Howard Tinsley."

"So old Ab had fifteen hundred cash, did he?" Thomas Trumbley drawled out as he leaned in the doorway to catch the conversation, his coarse shirt open at the neck. "I knowed the old duck had seeds laid by for a rainy day, but I hardly 'lowed the pile was as big as that. He won't lose nuther. Them two'll make that paper walk along; you see ef they don't."

With the parcels unopened under her arm, Mrs. Trumbley was turning toward the dining room. "Come on an' eat yore supper," she said to her daughter. "I hear Mr. Daniel on the porch now. Take off that hat. Have you gone plumb crazy?"

Mary stood hesitatingly. "I'm not hungry, mother—not a bit. Howard treated me and Uncle Ab to ice cream and cakes just before we drove out of town. He was so happy over the trade being closed that he insists on our doing it, and—"

"Well, you ain't goin' to sleep in yore hat, shorely?" Mrs. Trumbley retorted sharply. "What are you keeping it on for?"

With slow fingers Mary untied the ribbons beneath her iridescent chin. "I thought I'd keep it on because I have to—to run over to the Tinsleys, but I won't need it now that it is dark."

"Over to Tinsley's! Did you ever?" exclaimed Mrs. Trumbley. "What in the name o' common sense are you goin' over ther fer? You talked with that old woman at the gate fully an hour this mornin', an' now you have to see 'er before you are at home a minute. You will be sleepin' an' eatin' over ther next, I reckon."

"Tut, tut, tut!" The exclamation was Abner's, who was entering from the rear, his loose shoes scraping on the floor. "Do let the gal alone. I heard 'er promise Howard to run right over to relieve his mother's mind. The pore old creature is nigh crazy, expectin' the boy to go away tomorrow, an' this change in his plans will be glad tidin's to a ahead, Mary. Old Ab understands you ef yore ma don't."

"I understand 'er entirely too well fer my peace o' mind," Mrs. Trumbley sneered. "She is lettin' the entire country know she has Howard Tinsley on 'er mind—right now, too, when the triflin' scamp is drivin' here an' ther with that stuck up Atlanta girl. I heard—an' it come straight, too—that him an' her met old Tinsley in the big road 'tother day an' that Howard turned his head in another direction an' didn't so much as nod to the man he owes his all to."

"Howard looked away to keep from havin' to stop an' lick the old skunk in public," Abner chuckled mischievously. "Old Hiram has been shootin' off his lip too free about Miss Langham. He thinks because she shakes a merry toe in the gay quadrille an' lets the boys hold 'er tight agin' 'em in the polka that she is leadin' 'em all straight to perdition. She ain't exactly the sour faced sort o' females I was fetched up with, but I kind o' like 'er fer a change. I don't believe Howard is nigh about o' his daddy—the boy ain't that sort by a long shot—but he's havin' a hard time gittin' along with the old chap. Mary go ahead—let the boy's ma know what's happened. If you don't go I will have to, an' I want to avoid Hiram. I know 'im well enough to know that he's goin' to git his back up over what I've done."

In high impatience Mrs. Trumbley turned aside to open the parcels, and Mary gilded out into the twilight, her anticipated joy greatly diminished by the reprimand she had received.

She found Mrs. Tinsley alone in the big kitchen, which was dimly lighted by an oil lamp on a table. Mary's step was soft, and the woman was not aware of her presence till she was close behind her. Mary overheard a low, suppressed sigh as Mrs. Tinsley bent over the open fire, on the coals of which were some pots and pans, which she was cleaning with hot water and a rag on a stick.

"Oh!" she exclaimed as she turned and saw the visitor. "I didn't know who it was. Have you just got back? I was going over to—to see you. I—I thought Howard surely would come back with you and be at your house if—if he didn't come on here. Is—is he there?"

"No; we left him in town," Mary's voice was full of tense emotion. She laid her hands tenderly on the bent shoulders. The fear, flashed through her mind that the good news might do the recipient serious harm, and she was wondering how she could best make it known. In the short pause that ensued a groan escaped Mrs. Tinsley's lips.

"I see. He's not comin' even to say goodby to me. Maybe he'd rather I'd not go in town to see 'im off either? It may be true, as some say, that the young can't feel partin' like the old do. He's all I got in the world, but maybe I don't count fer much with him, as good a boy as he's always been."

Mary caught the hardened palms in her own. "She drew the old woman to her in a firm embrace. "Are you prepared for real good news, Mrs. Tinsley?" she asked tenderly. "You see, I am afraid!"

"Good—good news?" Mrs. Tinsley held her breath, her eyes widening as they fixed themselves on Mary's. "Yes, the best news in the world. Mrs. Tinsley, Howard is not going away at all. He would have come to tell you himself, but he had some important work to do tonight and left it to me."

Mrs. Tinsley, staring almost incredulously, put her hand behind her head, feeling about till it touched a chair. Then she sat down, her eyes still devouring Mary's. Drawing up another chair and holding Mrs. Tinsley's hand, Mary told all that had happened through the day.

As she talked in her gentle way the girl saw the strong features melt into softness and take on a spiritual light more wonderful than she had ever before beheld. Mrs. Tinsley put her hand over her quivering lips and choked down a weeping sob.

"The Lord's answered my prayer," she faltered out. "This mornin' after you left, Mary, I went down in the big swamp. I kept goin' until I was out o' hearin' of any sounds but the birds, the frogs an' the bees. Then I got down on my knees right whar the mire was shoe month deep. Somehow I thought a place like that was better a comfortable one. I throwed myself dat on the wet moss, dug my hands into it and cried out to my Maker with what seemed to me to be my last breath. I told 'im to look at me an' point out anything that I had done of harm to any livin' creature, even a dumb brute, or to him an' see if he hadn't overlooked my case too long. I prayed an' prayed like that fer hours on a stretch without stoppin'. Then all at once some'n' seemed to whisper inside o' me, 'Go home,' it said, 'an' wait.'"

"Strange, strange," Mary whispered. "I've prayed, too, that all your trouble might be averted. I was losing faith when the good news fell like a bolt from a clear sky. Howard is going to make up with his father too. He told me that he was going to beg Mr. Tinsley's pardon for his busy words when he was so angry on the day he left home."

It's Wonderful How Resinol Stops Itching

To those who have endured for years the itching torments of eczema or other such skin eruptions, the relief that the first use of Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap usually gives is incredible.

After all the suffering they have endured and all the useless treatments they have spent good money for, they cannot believe anything so simple, mild and inexpensive can stop the itching and burning INSTANTLY! And they find it still is permanent and that Resinol really drives away the eruption completely in a very short time. Perhaps there is a pleasant surprise like this in store for you. Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap are sold by all druggists.

A Good Soap For Baby Skin

A good baby soap should contain soothing, healing properties to prevent the rashes and chafings to which babies are liable. That is why so many physicians recommend Resinol Soap.

Dinner Stories

An old farmer and his wife drove to market one day. It had been a very wet day, and large pools of water had formed in the roadway between the farm and the town. On the return journey an old friend was met.

"And how are you today?" was the friendly greeting.

"Oh, very well, thank you!" answered the farmer.

"How is the missus?" continued the friend.

"She's fine, fine!" answered the farmer. "She's behind there—jerk-in' his thumb toward the back seat. "She's not there!" said the astonished friend.

The old farmer turned and looked over his shoulder, then coolly replied: "Humph! that would be the splash, then!"

The distracted young man paced wildly across the floor.

"Miss Merrill, that beautiful young lady that I was engaged to has asked—"

HEALTH OF WOMEN
WRECKED BY IGNORANCE

Avoid a Life of Misery and Ill Health By Using a Celebrated Physician's Favorite Prescription

For every disease or ailment of a womanly character, no matter how recent or long standing, the one sure, reliable remedy of proved merit is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Women should never experiment with untried preparations; the risk is too great. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is prepared from nature's roots and herbs and does not contain a particle of alcohol or any narcotic.

Women are earnestly advised to take it for irregular or painful periods, backache, headache, displacement, catarrhal condition, hot flashes, sallow complexion and nervousness.

For girls about to enter womanhood, women about to become mothers and for the changing days of middle age Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription should always be on hand.

It's a temperance remedy that is extracted from roots with pure glycerine and its ingredients are published on wrapper.

Any medicine dealer can supply it in either liquid or tablet form. The cost is modest, the restorative benefits truly remarkable. Write Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for free confidential medical advice—Adv.

Don't Let a Cold

Get a Good Start

The way to check a cold is to fight it from the first. Even the worst maladies often are easily conquered if attacked early enough. Colds may lead to asthma, bronchial troubles and pulmonary affections. In the treatment of these one of the first needs is to build up body resistance. Eckman's Alternative often has assisted in such upbuilding. As a treatment for the troubles named, it has been used for more than twenty years. And in many instances it has effected lasting relief.

As with any other medicine, it should be regarded only as a first aid to right care and hygienic living—and a safe one. For it contains no narcotics, opiates or habit-forming drugs of any sort.

SOAP
We always call for round soap. That's all we know about soap. Some of it is round and some of it is square. Some of it floats and some of it sinks. We don't know which. Yesterday we called for round soap. We found it was mint flavored. It said so. It said so, audibly. And the word "MINT" was carved on the side of the soap. We knew it was mint flavored.

Mint soap! At what affectation will the world not stop! Are we going to have to begin to choose our soap like we do our sodas? Is soap going to force itself into our lives?

We don't want to give any thought to soap. We just want to buy a ten-cent cake unchalantly and come home and take a bath—privately.

But—mint soap! Banana soap. Pineapple soap. Chocolate soap. Strawberry soap. Vanilla soap with nuts on it.

And next, they will be offering soap that floats only floats, or floats fancifully. Soap that floats in circles, soap that floats in figure eights, soap that does the one-step.

Life is becoming complex and complex. Now we have got to wake up and become conscious of soap. Not only conscious, but careful.

But let us hope that the world will never forget the fundamental purpose of soap, the very excuse for its existence: soap is to wash with!

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, June 21, 1876.—The banner which has for several days been suspended over Main street opposite the Young American block, has attracted considerable attention from the inscription it bears, "Cade Mine a Fault that was a stunner to the hundreds who read it, but after an inquiry among the delegates to the Catholic convention, it was made plain enough. A hundred thousand welcomes. Anyone might have known that. There is just now a growing interest in the baseball question, and our young men, who are determined to have plenty of sport this summer, are showing more enterprise this summer than usually. This evening a new nine will be organized, and a meeting will take place on the grounds on Gas Hill, shortly after six o'clock. All in favor of the new movement, are requested to attend this meeting. The St. John's cornet band of Appleton in connection with the Catholic Temperance band, paraded the streets last night and gave our citizens some good music.

ACCEPT PLANS FOR DRAINAGE SYSTEM

City Council Passes on City Engineer's Specifications for Second Ward Improvements.

Minor and routine business was brought before the city council at their meeting Tuesday afternoon. The important resolution passed was the acceptance and filing of the plans as prepared by City Engineer C. V. Kerch for the various streets in the second ward, where improvements are to be made this summer to afford a better drainage system for the entire district.

This is the first proceeding necessary for the city officers to put through the order passed some months ago. The next action is the public hearings when the assessments are spread against the property owners for the improvement.

The bills for the past two weeks were allowed and orders drawn for the amounts.

City Clerk J. P. Hammarlund was directed to draw an order of $75 from the Memorial Day fund to pay for the various expenses, as indicated by the proper vouchers, for the exercises held in this city on Memorial Day.

The city treasurer was authorized to draw from the general fund, for street repair materials and other equipment. The city paid the bills out of the general fund, for the time being, and the transfer was made through the resolution to adjust the proper amounts in the ward and highway fund.

The bond of Julius Roger to deal in junk was found in due form and after the papers had been approved, the license was granted. The bond of G. A. Crossman in deal in second hand goods, was also approved.

The annual report of Fire Chief H. C. Klein was received and after consideration was filed. The council did not discuss any of the recommendations, preferring to take them up at a later date.

An invitation was extended by Clark W. Cummings, pastor of the First Christian church, for the members of the council and other city officials to attend the civic service meeting to be held Sunday evening, July second.

Notices were ordered served on Eugene Delisle, Holmes street, and the W. Godden estate, Terrace street, to erect standard sidewalks in front of their property. Notice was ordered served on F. H. Kusine to establish a proper grade at a distance of five feet from the property lines for a sidewalk on Galena street between River and Franklin.

The Bicknell company was granted permission to use a portion of Wall street for the storage of building material during repair work on the building.

David Atwood was granted permission to use a portion of South Third street during improvements of property.

Petitions for oiling Mineral Point avenue between River and Madison streets and South Academy from Holmes to North street were received and filed. The streets were ordered oiled.

The plan for the streets on Parkwood addition submitted to the council were approved. The streets, it is reported, have been laid and dedicated under the name of Columbus circle.

CLASS IS GRADUATED AT TRAINING SCHOOL

Twenty-Three Prospective Teachers Receive Diplomas at Commencement Exercises This Morning.

A class of twenty-three young women, prospective school teachers of Rock county, received their diplomas this morning at the commencement exercises of the Rock county teachers' training school at the Christ church guild hall.

The room was beautifully decorated with white and black class colors, while the motto, "Make Good," was conspicuously placed in the background of the platform. The members of the graduating class were becomingly attired in white gowns made by themselves as an outcome of their course in sewing. They also wore yellow roses, their class flower.

Prof. George L. Hatch's orchestra rendered delightful music and Mr. Hatch gave a vocal solo, "A Perfect Day," to which he responded with an encore.

Prof. F. J. Lowth presided at the meeting and introduced Rev. C. E. Ewing, who gave the invocation. The commencement address on "The New Duty and Opportunity of the County School Teacher," by Prof. H. C. Buell, was a practical talk on the needs and opportunities of the rural teacher.

He emphasized the fact that the teacher must adapt her teaching to the environment and give helpful advice toward efficiency of the pupil, both in mental and physical directions.

He enlarged on the social center idea and how the teacher could lead in the better things of the community life. He also asked that common honesty and the fundamental things of religion be a part of the things instilled into the minds of the pupils.

The presentation of diplomas was made by Superintendent O. D. Antisdel, who is secretary of the training school board. Mr. Antisdel called attention to the close motto, as an epitome of the service, which the teachers could render in the school districts where they would be called upon to teach.

The annual alumni banquet was served at the training school at 12:30. It was a delightful repast and was served by the juniors of the school.

At its close a program was given as follows, under the direction of Miss Helen Sands, '12, president of the Alumni association, who served as toastmistress:

Class Song—Class of 1915.
Welcome to New Class—Lucy Putney, '16.
Response—Alice Cullen, '16.
Music: Instrumental—Marie Dobson, '14.

Presentation of Memento to School—Alice Carroll, '15.
Acceptance on Behalf of School—Florida O. Luce.

Vocal Solo—Ella J. Jacobson.
The Five Years—Supt. O. D. Antisdel, Supt. H. C. Buell.

Music: Instrumental—Alice Cullen, '16.
The Teacher's Service—Rev. Chas. E. Ewing.

Class Song—Class of 1916.
The election of officers for the Alumni association for the ensuing year took place at 2:30.

Following are the members of this year's graduating class: Grace Caldwell, Marvel Gowdrey, Alice Cullen, Margaret Donahue, Anna Ford, Marie Fox, Myrtle Gowder, Margaret Graham, Grace Gravidale, Mabel Hill, Margaret Holden, Olive Hupel, Ann Kehoe, Alma Helhofer, Lydia Meloy, Margaret O'Brien, Luella Robinson, Marie Sullivan, Mabel Taylor, Bertha Thorson, Dorothy Van Galder, Marie Vickerman, Ella Vignahl.

MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN GOING IN AT M. C. A. SPECIAL SUMMER RATES

Quite a number of the young men of the city are taking advantage of the summer membership offer that the board of directors of the Young Men's Christian association are offering this week.

The railroad and membership committees of the board are working on the campaign and they are meeting with quite a success. The offer expires Saturday evening and it is expected that a great many more men and boys will join the association for the summer months.

A special rate is given for the next sixteen weeks. The holder of the summer membership ticket will be entitled to the full privileges of the association. This will include the use of the baths, swimming pool, games and reading rooms. The committee expect to visit every factory and shop in the city in the next two days canvassing for members.

EVANSVILLE YOUNG MAN WEDS A CHICAGO GIRL

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Evansville, Wis., June 21.—Word has been received announcing the marriage of Miss Eloise Seavert, of Chicago, who graduated with the class of 1916 from the state university this morning, to Leonard P. Eager, a grandson of the late Leonard Eager of this city. Both Mr. Eager and his bride have been fellow students at the university and were known to be engaged, but it was not expected their marriage would occur until later in the summer. They will make their home in Evansville.

You can own your own home easily by reading and acting on the offers contained in Gazette Want Ads.

TO CUT STATE RATES ON FIRE INSURANCE

Reductions in Three Year Dwelling Rates Will Amount to 20 and 30 Per Cent—Affects Janesville.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Madison, Wis., June 21.—Wisconsin fire insurance rates will be subjected to sweeping reductions on July 1, when the new schedules agreed to by the insurance companies with Insurance Commissioner M. J. Cleary will be put into effect. The reductions for the three year dwelling rates range all the way from 30 per cent to 20 per cent depending upon the size of the city affected.

Insurance Commissioner M. J. Cleary estimates that thousands of dollars will be saved to the people of Wisconsin as the result of this reduction.

In Milwaukee the three year rate on brick buildings with metal roofs remains at 35 cents; brick with shingle reduced from 60 cents to 45 cents; frame with metal roof from 60 cents to 45 cents and on frame with shingle roof from 75 cents to 55 cents.

There are twenty-one cities in classes ranging from 1 to 2.5. The reduction for these classes will be from 30 to 21 per cent based on the three year rate. These reductions are announced as follows:

Brick with metal roof reduced from 50 to 35 cents; brick with shingle roof from 60 to 45 cents; frame with metal roof from 60 to 45 cents, and frame with shingle roof from 70 to 55 cents.

Included in these are the cities of Fond du Lac, Appleton, Dodgeville, Manitowish, Kenosha, Sheboygan, Racine, Appleton, Beloit, Chippewa Falls, Green Bay, Janesville, Wausau, Superior, Marinette and Ashland.

All towns with fire protection and rated as classes 4 and 5, will be subject to the following reductions for the three year rate: Brick with metal roof reduced from 50 cents to 40; brick with shingle from 60 cents to 50; frame with metal from 60 to 50; and frame with shingle from 70 to 60.

Monroe is in this class. There are 137 fourth class cities in this group and 201 four and one-half class cities. Class 5 includes towns and villages to the number of about 70 which have fire protection to the extent of bridges but not water mains. For these the three year rate has been reduced ten cents for each class as indicated above.

JAPANESE HOSPITAL WILL RETURN GIFT OF GERMANS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Kobe, Japan, June 21.—The subscribers to the proposed reconstructed international hospital at Kobe have voted to return to German subscribers the gift of $7,000 which they made to found a "Kaiser Wilhelm II. Operating Room" in the hospital. On account of their objection to the methods of German warfare the subscribers, mostly English, decided that they did not wish any part of the hospital to be named after the German Emperor.

They started to collect a fund to take the place of the German gift and the total amount was recently made up.

The German directors of the hospital board absented themselves from the meeting but sent a letter declaring that as German subjects they must be present at a gathering which occupied itself with the name or person of His Majesty, Kaiser Wilhelm II.

Marvin Goul has returned from the University of Wisconsin for the summer. Miss Ida Goul spent Tuesday in Janesville.

Mrs. J. Lloyd Smith was a Janesville visitor Tuesday.

Mrs. Fred Gardiner went to Janesville Tuesday to enter the hospital for an operation.

Ralph Bement is spending a few days at home.

Messrs. W. Kibbe and M. Hartman were at Lake Koshkonong the fore part of the week on a fishing trip.

NOTICE—Gazette is on sale in Brodhead at Miller's News Stand.

MERCHANDISE PRICES HAVE INCREASED GREATLY IN BELGIUM

The Hague, Netherlands, June 21.—Notwithstanding the good offices of the Belgian Relief Committee, the prices of articles of popular necessity in Belgium have risen to unheard of heights. A list of some of these articles shows an average rise of 40 per cent compared with 1914. According to the report that formerly cost 11 cents, now costs one dollar; coffee is $1.40 a kilogram, as against 40 cents sugar forty-two cents, against fourteen cents; tobacco eighty cents, against 40 cents; butter, $1.40, against 64 cents; prime beef $1.50, against 48 cents.

While regulations and maximum prices have been proclaimed by the authorities, it is declared that one seeks any of the things thus officially regulated at the lawful price, the customer is told that it is "sold out"—and the sale is made only secretly at any price the dealer can command.
